Isle promoter G-spot climbs to the top

PAY ATTENTION, and it's pretty easy to see why G-Spot is one of the more successful promoters in Honolulu.

Whenever I see the guy, he's got fliers in hand and is usually on the grind letting others know about the next big party he's throwing. Things were no different on Sept. 29, when I ran into him at UH-Manoa during "On the 1: Special Delivery."

Although he was in the middle of broadcasting his weekly radio show on KTUH-FM, G-Spot still made a point to come down and let the handful of people gathered know about Dieselboy coming up at NextDoor on Saturday.

As usual, I asked him about his recent travels. Not surprisingly, he had just gotten back from San Francisco and was getting ready to visit L.A.

But what blew my mind was a trip he took last month — to Africa. G-Spot made a return trip to that country so he could climb Mount Kilimanjaro, a feat that took him 10 days. He called it the "hardest thing physically and mentally" he's ever had to do in his life ...
