

savvy at promotion as they are at club management. Shows there always groove, bump, rock or ... what have you. This one will feature a costume contest and swag.

Go Jimmy Go will provide the live music for the event. The undisputed kings of ska and rocksteady in Hawai'i, GJG will be the biggest attraction on Hotel Street on Saturday night. If anyone can get people to show up in costume a few days early, it's them.

All together now

Not digging the vibe? The bar doesn't have your beer of choice? Not quite feeling what the DJ is spinning? No need to fret because bar and club hopping will get a bit easier this Halloween weekend at the Chinatown Getdown.

Warning: This is for the hardcore night-on-the-towner—homebodies and lightweights need not apply.

Prepare yourself for a come-as-you-are, go-as-you-please downtown affair where one cover charge gets you into five live nightspots; Indigo, Mercury Bar, Next Door, 39 Hotel and Pipeline Café.

With 16 DJs in all, plan on getting a plentiful helping of house, hip-hop, electro, rock, '80s and dancehall served up by G-spot, the Nocturnal Sound Crew, Ross Jackson and Wu-Chang, to name a few.

Once you're done at the Chinatown locales, which all close at 2AM, finish the night at the VIP lounge at Pipeline Café at Foreplay Fridays where last call is as close to 4AM as you're gonna get.

A total of $3,000 in prize giveaways makes things even more attractive. A canned food item gets you half off admission and will be donated to the Hawai'i Food Bank.

The only thing that would make this mega party more rage-worthy would be if it were actually on Halloween night. But we'll take it.
